

What Does Female Empowerment Mean To You?

Who are we? We are women. We're women who deserve the right to freedom, to speech, to vote, and the right to express our emotions without being criticized. We're women who can make a difference, to impact the world for the greater good. We're women who need to stand up to the bias and discrimination imposed on us by other people. We can make a change. We need to show the world we can make a change.

Female empowerment is essential to our society today. It refers to the ability for women to enjoy their resources, belongings and free time without being discriminated against. It is also aimed to "break the glass ceiling", improve economic status, education, and the overall well being of women.

To all those men who flinch when they see a female shoulder
To all those felons who take advantage of womens bodies
To all those generalizations made about women
And to all those women who see it -
As yet another normal day in society.

We need to stand up against this discrimination
We need to stand up for women.